

Still believe that Planned Parenthood and the University of Texas Prevention Research Center aren't "AFFILIATED"???

#1 Jessy Uriarte writes an article to promote the joint efforts of Planned Parenthood and the University of Texas Prevention Research Center. Notice she states that she works for BOTH Planned Parenthood AND the University of Texas Center for Prevention Research (or UTPRC).

#2 Jessy works in collaboration with Planned Parenthood AND UTPRC OR UTPRC. Collaboration is defined as "a working together: the act of working together with one or more people in order to achieve something." Synonyms include: cooperation, teamwork, partnership, association, alliance, relationship...

#3 Planned Parenthood AND UTPRC are advancing "comprehensive sex ed" which violates Texas Education Code 28.004.

#4 "It's Your Game" Comprehensive Sex Ed program was taught to high school students in the practicum but targets middle schoolers with inappropriate language, provocative dress, embarrassing skits, mature themes with drug & alcohol references.

#5 "It's Your Game. Keep It Real" sex ed program created by UTPRC Dr. Susan Tortolero, et. Al. is affiliated with Planned Parenthood.

#6 Again, the affiliation is clearly stated.

#7 Planned Parenthood condoms have had the worst efficacy rate per a Consumer Reports condom study*. Planned Parenthood benefits monetarily from teaching sex ed and getting sexually active students to become customers. *<http://www.thebody.com/content/art9057.html>

Working with Planned Parenthood and the Center for Prevention Research
By: Jessy Uriarte #1

During my practicum, I worked in collaboration with Planned Parenthood and the Center for Prevention Research. I learned both about the high level planning that goes into advancing sexuality education in the school system and the "on the ground" realities of implementing an evidence based program.

Special events/duties/highlights during your practicum

- Shadowed sex educators in the field.
- Implemented an evidence based program with a group of high school students

Public Health Significance

This practicum allowed me to INFORM, EDUCATE and IMPOWER teens through the implementation of an evidence based program. I held twelve sessions with a small group of students (less than 25) where I taught the "It's your game. Keep it Real" program developed by Dr. Tortolero, Dr. Markham, Dr. Peskin and Dr. Shegog at the University of Texas Center for Prevention Research. My students were 13 - 15 years old and provided provocative and never dull discussion of sensitive topics.

I acted during this practicum as a representative not only of UTSPH but also of Planned Parenthood. I sat in on a number of meetings and trainings at PP where I learned a great deal about their culture and goals as an organization. They are the experts in the field and have provided quality sexuality education and health care for women and men throughout the Houston area for decades.

This practicum gave me invaluable insight into the world of sexuality education as seen through the lenses of both the academic field and real world implementation.

Planned Parenthood's unique brand of condoms has a catchy slogan.
